BASE BALL SCORE 112 TO 98.

Were 57 Players, 8 Umpires, 42 Home Runs and 74 Errors.

Rossiter, Pa., June 11.—Rossiter claims a world's record for a base ball game—in number of runs, hits, errors and umpires—in the contest here today between Upper Rossiter and Lower Rossiter for the championship of the town.

The box score resembles a foundry stock list, and no one has yet attempted to complete the batting and fielding records of the players. At any rate, the Lower Rossiter team was victorious in the sixteenth inning, the score being 112 to 98.

The game consumed five hours and fifty-seven players were used by both sides. During the game forty-two home runs, fifty-three triples, seventy-three doubles and seventy-four errors were made. Eight different umpires officiated, three of them being disabled during play.

With the score 98 to 98, the Lower Rossiter team went to bat in the sixteenth inning and made fourteen runs, breaking up the game.

NORMAL SCHOOL NOTES.

The devotional exercises at the Normal Friday were led by Rev. Gilbert S. Cox of the First M. E. church. After the reading of the Scriptures Rev. Cox sang "The Star of Eve." The visits of Rev. Cox are always enjoyed by the student body, as they appreciate his excellent singing and talks.

No more will the pestiferous book agent stop the student in the hallways and force him to sign up for a set of books which are paid for at different periods of your life time. President Richardson announced this morning that all agents must come to the office and get permission to display their books and papers in the Normal building. He will assign a special room to them where students who are interested may go and look through their wares. This is done in order to protect all concerned.

On June 30 the presidents of the different Normals of the state will be in Maryville for a conference, and President Richardson announced that they will probably address the students.

A girls' basket ball league will be formed this evening if enough girls will attend the meeting that will be held for that purpose.

Mrs. Dick Strong and Mrs. Frank Ewing and their children went to Pickering Friday to visit their mother, Mrs. Mary Livasy.

TO BE IMPROVED

PLANS BEING MADE FOR WORK ON NORMAL GROUNDS.

TO START IN THE FALL

H. F. Major, Landscape Architect of the University, is Making Out the Plans and is Here This Week.

The Normal grounds are to be improved by grading and the planting of shrubs and flowers, and is to be made a very beautiful place. H. F. Major, landscape architect of the university at Columbia has been in Maryville the past few days making out the plans. As yet they are not completed, and it is not exactly known what the improvements of the grounds will consist of.

The last legislature appropriated $3,000 for walks and grading and improving the grounds.

Mr. Major has been conferring with W. A. Blagg, president of the board of regents, and President Richardson of the school in regard to the work. When his plans are made the work will be carried out here by help that will be employed by the board. The Ninth street entrance is to be opened and made in a fine roadway. There will probably be some changes in the roadways on the grounds. The road just west of the Normal building will be done away with and put at a longer distance from the building. There is some talk of changing the entrance road to the building. All of the improvement work to be carried on will be announced later by the school.

GIVE A CHILD PLENTY TO EAT.

They Need the Proper Nourishment to Grow.

Few people realize that a growing child should have much more food, proportionately, than the adult who has stopped increasing in size; hence the youngster is apt to be underfed and stunted.

Accurately calculated the proportions of food necessary for children and adults is as follows:

A child under 2 years requires 0.3 the food of a man at moderate work.

A child of 3-5 years requires 0.4 the food of a man at moderate work.

A child of 6-9 years requires 0.5 the food of a man at moderate work.

A child of 10-13 years requires 0.6 the food of a man at moderate work.

A girl of 14-16 years requires 0.7 the food of a man at moderate work.

A boy of 14-16 years requires 0.8 the food of a man at moderate work.

And a boy (or a girl for that matter) of 17 and over who is actively taking part in athletics needs decidedly more food than the grown man at even hard work.

After a child passes the age of 5 he or she should have almost half the amount of the man at moderate work; and the variety should be still greater than before, with more frequent and larger rations of meat. Finally, throughout the child's upbringing remember that plenty of exercise, out of doors, not only creates appetite, but helps to transform food into bone, muscle and vitality.—Mothers' Magazine.

Was Here a Long Time Ago.

David N. Knox of St. Joseph, who arrived in Maryville Thursday with Mrs. Knox on a visit to their sons, Theodore and Arthur Knox, was walking around Maryville Friday morning, noting a few changes that had taken place here since he first came to this part of the country. As he walked by the Linville hotel he remembered that when he came to the city the first time in 1854, when the hotel stood on the present site of the Linville, was built of hewn logs. There was no room at the hotel the night he arrived for any more travelers, and he had to drive ten miles north into the country before he could find a place to sleep. Deer were running wild everywhere and traps were set all along the way for game. Mr. Knox located here at that time and was a resident for a good many years. He says that one's neighbors who lived ten or fifteen miles away knew one another better in those days than they do now ,living next door to them.

Miss Vesta Hunt of Ravenwood is a new student at the Maryville Conservatory.

Mrs. J. A. Speer of Burlington Junction was a business visitor in the city Friday.

IT'S 136 YEARS OLD

STAR SPANGLED BANNER HAS A BIRTHDAY SATURDAY.

LITTLE CHANGE MADE

Flag Today is as Designed by Betsy Ross Except for Additional Stars in Azure Field.

Just 136 years ago tomorrow, June 14, a bright little American woman stood before three men in a room of her small but comfortably furnished house at 239 Arch street, Philadelphia, Pa. One of the men was her uncle, and he will go down in history with that for his sole distinction. Another was Samuel Morris, whose private fortune was pledged to the credit of the struggling colonies. The third man was of commanding stature; of severe and grim but kindly countenance. Upon his high forehead were faint but discernible pockmarks. He was an aristocrat and a patriot, a soldier and a statesman, a Virginia gentleman and a liberator.

The bright little American woman was Betsy Ross and the Virginia gentleman was George Washington. To the woman belongs the undying glory of having not only made the first American flag that was ever raised after the Declaration of Independence, but of having suggested material modifications in the design submitted by the three gentlemen named, a committee acting in pursuance of an act of the American congress, which declared that the flag of the new republic should consist of thirteen alternate stripes of red and white with thirteen stars on a blue field in the upper left corner.

The momentous event is celebrated every year on June 14, the day on which the flag was first displayed 136 years ago. It has become known as Flag day, and all over the country there are salutes to the flag, lessons in the history of the flag, incultations of love for the flag and prophecies for the still more glorious future of the flag. Hardly second to Memorial day and July 4, it has become the great patriotic day of the year, for the youth of the country.

The history of the American flag is an exceedingly interesting one. Those whose hearts are fired with patriotism at the sight of the beautiful stars and stripes tomorrow would not recognize the first flags in the history of their country. Some of the colonial ensigns were grotesque in the extreme, with their pine trees and their rattlesnakes. The flag of the federated colonies bears little resemblance to the Star Spangled Banner of today. It had too much of a suggestion of England upon it to suit the colonists and the cross of St. George did not last long after the spirit of liberty began to heave in the breasts of the restless colonies. It was a simple ensign, the cross of St. George on a white field being emblazoned on a red field, a tiny globe nestling in the extreme upper left corner.

The first national banner was the groundwork of stripes of alternating red and white, with the combined crosses of St. George and St. Andrew emblazoned on a blue canton in the upper left corner.

Then came Betsy Ross and the Stars

The young man was twenty-seven years of age. He was to have been married this month. He lived in Maryville all his early life and was employed seven years as a cigarmaker by Nusbaum & Ream, beginning when quite a small boy. He went from Maryville with his parents to Salina, Kan., and continued to work as a cigar maker for awhile, then went into the employ of the electric light company of Salina and became an electrician. He was a valued employe of the company at the time of his death. He was a member of the Odd Fellows, W. O. W. and United Workmen lodges. HAD BIG AUDIENCE

MARYVILLE PEOPLE WERE GOOD LISTENERS THURSDAY NIGHT.

MRS. BAXTER ALL RIGHT

Her Experiences in Civic Work and Its Results is a Cue for Maryville People.

It was a fine audience that greeted Mrs. Clarence Baxter of Kirksville at the First M. E. church Thursday night to hear her address that will make our town a better place to live in. She came upon invitation of the Federation of Women's Clubs and the Maryville Commercial club, because they wanted the people of Maryville to know how Kirksville came to be known as one of the cleanest towns in the country. And we soon found out.

The way Kirksville people work together, the men and women and children, and what they have accomplished by so doing was told so earnestly and pleasantly that it has made the matter of civic work a very inviting one to all who were in the audience Thursday night.

The Maryville band gave splendid music for over a half hour while the people were gathering and it was certainly one of the best representative audiences that has been together for a long time.

The people were escorted to their seats by the girls of the Hum Drum club, Misses Dale Hoffman, Martha Koch, Mildred Robinson, Ruby Curnutt, Geneva and Marjorie Wilfley, Blanche Shipps, Vera Tilson, Hildred Hanna, Frances Keeler, Carrie Margaret Baker, Ora Barmann, Eleanor Smith, Glen Hotchkiss and Ruth Reuillard. Each one they seated was given a pledge card to sign, in which the signer agreed to clean his back yard.

Just before the speaker of the evening was introduced, Mrs. F. P. Robinson sang the "Star Spangled Banner" in splendid voice with accompaniment by the band.

Mrs. G. H. Colbert, chairman of the civic committee of the federation, opened the subject for the evening by saying that Maryville club women had come to realize they had been working selfishly long enough in their study for self-culture, and that they wanted to line up with the other women in other places who are doing things worth while in improving their home towns and meeting needs that are all about them. She explained some of the things they wish to do that have been touched on before, and which will be made clearer in these columns later on. The thing at hand now, she said, was to secure the co-operation of our people in cleaning our city for the reception of our visitors on June 18 for the dedication of the great white way, for it is out of the question to let them come here with our streets in the condition they are, and with a few more words that indicated she will prove as good a "live wire" for Maryville as Mrs. Baxter has proven for Kirksville, the speaker of the evening was introduced. Her appearance was enthusiastically received, and as she proceeded with her message her audience was more and more convinced of the truth of what she was saying in such true womanly manner that she and what she said is the talk of the town today.

It would not be possible to tell all she said, but we will endeavor from time to time to give a little now and then as the need comes, to keep her message in mind, "lest we forget," which we believe will do more than to attempt to tell it all now.

One thing should be a big encouragement, she said almost at the beginning:

"Kirksville had not near so much as you have to begin her civic work. Your town has more natural beauty; you have more beautiful and pretty homes deeper lawns, bigger and finer trees and so many more of them, and you have greater wealth. If you do the right work you will have a town of wondrous beauty, because it is beautiful right now. All it needs at present is to be clean."

The rest rooms the women of Kirksville have fitted in the court house for the use of the country women has proved the greatest blessing to them and to the business men, too, whose stores were always crowded so badly on Saturdays and on big business days that it interfered with their business. This part of the address appealed strongly to Maryville club women who have tried a long time to secure a rest room for the women shoppers from a distance in Maryville.

Clean up day is set for Monday, June 16. After hearing Mrs. Baxter's story of how the work was done in Kirksville there is no doubt that the work in Maryville will be carried through without the least trouble.

M'REYNOLDS URGES DISSOLUTION ACTION

Union Pacific Plan Unsatisfactory to Attorney General.

St. Paul, June 13.—Attorney General McReynolds served notice that the government was opposed to giving the Union Pacific railroad any further extension of time within which to dispose of its holdings of Southern Pacific stock, as ordered by the supreme court. In doing so he made known to the railroad's attorneys and to United States Circuit Judges Sanborn, Hook and Smith at a hearing in the dissolution proceedings his objections to the two latest plans proposed by the railroad for getting rid of its $126,650,000 worth of Southern Pacific stock.

Mr. McReynolds declared that he could see no objection to the proposed exchange by the railroad of $38,000,000 worth of its Southern Pacific stock (a little less than one-third of its total holdings) for $21,000,000 worth of Baltimore and Ohio stock held by the Pennsylvania railroad. He asked the court for a brief time, however, within which to investigate the stockholdings of the various railroads involved.

After hearing lengthy arguments on both sides the court took the matter under advisement.

WOMAN ADMITS AXE MURDER

Confesses Slaying Husband and Little Daughter.

KILLED THEM IN THEIR BEDS.

Ran to Neighbors With Story of Mysterious Man Who Fled as She Awakened After Aiming Blow at Her. Bathes Child's Wounds.

Harrisonville, Mo., June 13.—Mrs. Arthur Kellar confessed it was she who killed her husband, a railroad laborer, and their daughter, Margaret, seven years old. Kellar and the girl were slain with an axe as they lay in their beds.

The confession, which was signed by Mrs. Kellar, brought to a quick termination the coroner's inquest that has been in session two days in an attempt to place the responsibility for the murder. Mrs. Kellar was taken to jail.

"God knows I would not have killed them had I known what I was doing," Mrs. Kellar said in her confession. She declared she had frequently been irresponsible for her acts since she received a blow on the head two years ago.

Impelled by Resistless Force.

In her confession Mrs. Kellar relates that when she went to bed Monday night she was feeling badly and lay down with her clothes on. Later she awoke and, impelled by a force she could not resist, she says, she secured the axe and, returning to the room where her husband and Margaret were asleep in the same bed, struck them both, blow upon blow. Only after the deed was done did she realize what she was doing, she declares.

"I remember striking them both," the confession runs, "but I don't know which one I struck first. The blind was up and I could see them there in bed."

Bathes Child's Wounds.

After she realized what had happened, Mrs. Kellar says, she set fire to some paper on a chair near Kellar's bed that she might see better. Later she went to the kitchen, lighted the lantern and returned with water, with which she bathed Margaret's wounds. Then she picked up the axe and broke a piece off her own bed that she might make it appear that she also had been attacked. She then went to the neighbors and told the story of the mysterious man who had fled as she awakened after he had struck at her with an axe, but had failed to hit her and had struck the bed instead.

FIVE DIE IN TRAIN WRECK

Second Section of Express Hit by Locomotive of First.

Stamford, Conn., June 13.—Five persons are dead and many injured, some seriously, as the result of a rear-end collision on the main line of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad opposite the local passenger depot when the second section of the Springfield express, westbound, crashed into the first section, which was just leaving the station.

The dead: Mrs. Edward J. Kelly of Winthrop, Mass.; Frank Canfield of Springfield, Mrs. Barges of Springfield, Everett Hazeley Woodruff of Flushing, N. Y.; unidentified woman.

The engine of the section ploughed half way through the Pullman, the last car on the first section. In this car there were thirty-one passengers and practically all of them were injured. According to an official statement given out by the railroad, indications are that the engineer of the second section ran by signals.

ASKS $25,000 DAMAGES

Legality of Reserve Baseball Contracts Attacked in Court.

St. Louis, June 13.—John J. O'Connor, manager of the St. Louis Federal baseball team, is to test the legality of the organization of organized ball in the federal courts.

The petition, which is prepared, will ask $25,000 damages for O'Connor's banishment from organized ball and will name each of the eight clubs in the American league as defendants and charges that the national baseball agreement is a violation of the anti-trust law.

The legality of the reserve clause in baseball contracts is attacked and the petition charges that the baseball leagues have bought and sold men as chattels and has denied to players the right to earn a living in the business for which they have been trained.

Sixty-five Year's Production of Machines that do the work backs up the Reliability of

The Champion Improved Binder

Three Exclusive Features Put This Machine in the Champion Class

Three features found in no other binder make the Champion Improved binder do efficient work under the hardest conditions as well as the easiest. These three features are—the force feed elevator, the balancing sectors, and the relief rake. There is no more need of these attachments on a Champion binder than on any other binder, but they are in accord with the Champion policy of building machines which do the work under all kinds of conditions.

The force feed elevator insures positive, even feeding to the packers of all kinds of grain. It prevents clogging at the top of the elevator. That is why this machine is able to do good work in badly lodged or tangled grain.

The balancing sectors preserve the proper balance of the binder, no matter for what height of grain it is set. In spite of many attempts to build balancing sectors, the Champion remains the only machine with sectors which actually preserve an even balance under all conditions.

The relief rake prevents choking at the inner end of the platform by keeping it clear of accumulations of grain, weeds, or grass. This insures perfect and continuous cutting along the whole length of the platform.

There are many other strong points besides these exclusive ones which help to give this machine its long-lived efficiency. Champion Improved binders are made in 5, 6, 7, and 8-foot sizes.

Champion Improved Mower

BIBLE STUDY ON

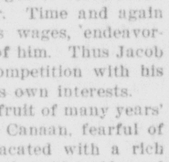
ALL THINGS WORK FOR GOOD TO THEM.

Genesis 46:23—47:31—June 15.

"To them that love God all things work together for good." Romans 8:28.

So Jacob and all his family left Canaan, the Land of Promise, and at the invitation of Pharaoh through Joseph, they located in the land of Goshen, suitable to their business, which was that of herdsmen and shepherds. Joseph went in his chariot to Goshen, and there met his father Jacob, whom he had not seen for many years; and Joseph wept.

Then came the official presentation of Jacob and his family to Pharaoh. Joseph was careful that they should make no mistake. He therefore let the king clearly know that their occupation was that of shepherds and herdsmen; for the Egyptians despised that business, and would keep themselves separate from the Hebrews. Thus the land of Goshen would be almost like a separate country from Egypt.



Jacob Presented to Pharaoh.

Jacob at this time was one hundred and thirty years old and quite feeble. Brought into Pharaoh's presence, Jacob blessed him, in the sense of asking the Divine blessing upon him. Thus the family of Jacob, now called by their new name, Israel, became firmly established in Egypt. Jacob lived seventeen years thereafter, during which Joseph and his people, the Israelites, were in favor with Pharaoh and the Egyptians.

Our lesson relates especially to God's willingness and ability to make all the experiences of His people work out for their good. This naturally suggests that we inquire in what way Jacob's life experiences were to his welfare. The Scriptures declare, "Jacob have I loved; Esau have I hated [loved less]." God's Love should be distinctly seen manifested in some way, in making all things work for good to Jacob and his family. The question is, How? Can we see how Divine favor operated for the welfare of Jacob and his family?

How Did God Bless Israel?

Jacob, having become heir of the great Abrahamic Promise "in thy Seed shall all the families of the earth be blessed", straightway seems to have gotten into trouble. He fled from home, leaving everything to Esau. He served his uncle Laban for seven years, that he might have Rachel for his wife. But Providence permitted him to be cheated, and he was obliged to serve seven years more for her. Time and again Laban changed his wages, endeavoring to get the best of him. Thus Jacob was thrown into competition with his uncle, to protect his own interests.

Finally, with the fruit of many years' toil, he returned to Canaan, fearful of Esau, whom he placated with a rich present. Later, he lost his wife and was bereft of Joseph, his beloved son. Then came the famine, the recovery of Joseph, and the incidents of today's lesson. Later on, that very move into Egypt appeared to have been disastrous, for the Egyptians enslaved the Israelites.

Finally they were delivered, only to have trying experiences in the wilderness for forty years. Then it was a gradual matter to get possession of Canaan. Then they had wars, pestilences, famines, captivities, rebellion, until they were carried away to Babylon. Later on, a few returned. By and by, Jesus came, and was repudiated by all except a few. Then God repudiated the nation. Gradually trouble and anarchy came upon them, until as a nation they went to Hades—nationally they fell asleep. They have been asleep for more than eighteen centuries, while personally they have been persecuted in many nations.

To understand how God's blessing was identified with Israel's experiences, we must glance at the experiences of other nations, and then look also into the future. Egypt, Assyria, Philistia and other nations which flourished in Israel's day have either been merged with other peoples or blotted out by natural processes. But Israel exists, even though nationally in Hades, Sheol, awaiting a national awakening and resurrection. That awakening is already arousing dry bones from despair, and pointing forward to a future day of blessing and prosperity.

Israel's national awakening arousing dry bones of despair.

The trying experiences of Israel tended also to develop noble characters, strong in faith and loyal to the core. St. Paul enumerates some of these. This selecting process continued down to Jesus' time, and found a glorious company, though small. God found the people He sought. These faithful ones of Israel are the ones for whom all things worked together for good. The time is near, we believe, when these will constitute Messiah's earthly representatives in ruling and blessing all mankind.

Throughout the Gospel Age, God has been selecting a Spiritual Israel from amongst all nations. These, too, have had bitter experiences — opposition from Satan, the world and their own flesh. These Spiritual Israelites are heirs with Jesus of the spiritual phase of the Messianic Kingdom.

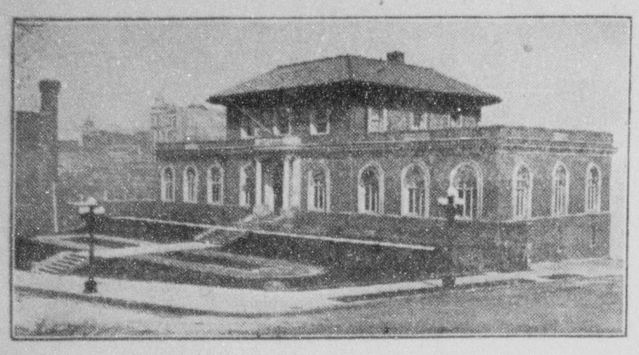
BEAUTIFUL NEW HOME OF THE ST. JOSEPH NEWS-PRESS



The new home of The News-Press is one of the show places of St. Joseph. It occupies a commanding site at the northeast corner of Ninth and Edmond streets, with easy access to the downtown section, which extends from this point in all directions. The site occupies a quarter of a block with a frontage of 140 feet on Edmond street and 128 feet on Ninth street. The building is 126 feet long and 68 feet wide. There are four centerstories. On the top floor is the publishers' office and editorial rooms, on the east part of the main floor is the business office and on the west half are the composing and stereotyping rooms. On the mezzanine floor is the city circulation department, toilet rooms and storage.

The ground floor contains the two quadruple Hoe presses, the mailing rooms, newsboys room and storage.

Steel lockers are provided for the clothing of the workers in the mechanical departments; also, a shower bath. A dressing room with steel lockers is provided for the women employes. Drinking water is supplied throughout the building from sanitary bubbling cups, ice cooled in summer.

The architecture is in the style of the early Italian renaissance and the general effect suggests a villa of that period. The construction is fireproof. The materials are reinforced concrete and hardburned Galesburg brick, gray terra cotta and stone. The roof is covered with green Spanish tiles.

The foreground is a formal garden with hedge, shrubs and floral trimmings surrounding a graceful expanse of greensward. In the western portion of the garden is a meridian stone giving the exact position of the spot and the direction and distance of many cities. The eastern end of the garden contains a sun dial.

The interior of the building is finished in marble and oak. The decorations of the business office and main central hall are thoroughly artistic. The wall coloring is a gray bronze green, and the heavy beams of the ceiling in the business office and lower hall are enriched by a scroll design of gold bronze, entwined about a conventionalized oak leaf in oxblood red. The lighting is by ceiling balls and classic side brackets of special design in old Roman gold. The furniture and fittings harmonize with the woodwork.

The mechanical equipment is as modern and complete as money and experience could make it. In the composing room there are nine Mergenthaler linotype machines. There is the latest make of steel composing room furniture. Every machine, even the proof press, has its own electric motor. The stereotype room is also of the latest model with compressed air driven and electrically heated drying presses and a semi-autoplate machine. In the pressroom, each of the Hoe quadruple presses is driven by a fifty horse power direct connected motor.

The editorial rooms are equipped with the latest furniture, all matching the woodwork. There is a private telephone exchange with a long distance booth in the main editorial room. Here is also a modern steel "morgue" for pictures and other kindred matter. Connected with the editorial rooms are an art room, a photographic developing room and a reference library.

Light, air, convenience, and safety characterize every part of this new and modern newspaper home. The News-Press extends a cordial invitation to visitors to make an inspection.

Washington, June 13.—How the government printing office and the postoffice department helped in the fight against free sugar and the congressional frank sent tons of anti-free sugar literature, circulating throughout the land, was brought out by the senate loby investigators.

Truman J. Palmer, Washington representative of the United States beet sugar industry, was on the stand the entire day and the subject of a sweeping cross-examination that more than 1,500,000 copies of arguments in behalf of beet sugar had been turned out by the government printing office, made public documents by order of congress and had ridden on the franks of senators and representatives to the ends of the country, postage free. "Sugar at a Glance," prepared by him, he said, had attained a circulation of 320,000 copies under the frank of Senator Lodge.

"Report of the finance committee" by the same senator had beaten the pamphlet by 80,000 copies. The franks of Senator Smoot, former Senators Curtis and Dick, and the late Representative Malby, former Representative Pickett and Representative Martin had swelled the total to more than a million and a half.

The printing of some of this number had been paid for by the beet sugar people, the witness said, but the free postage had saved them about $28,000.

Mr. Palmer said that the beet men had spent about $160,000 in their campaign against free sugar since 1902.

Leaves Committee in Dark.

Much of the day was spent by the committee in trying to find out all the details of how "sugar at a glance" came to be printed as a public document. Although Mr. Palmer was grilled for three hours on practically nothing else, when he left the stand committeemen said they were about as much in the dark as they were when the pamphlet was first mentioned.

Mr. Palmer said that when Senator Lodge made a speech on sugar in July, 1912, the charts subsequently used in the pamphlet were on the walls of the senate chamber.

Senator Lodge secured the permission of the senate to have them printed as a public document. Accompanying these charts, Mr. Palmer declared, were certain printed sheets containing sugar information. Questioned by members of the committee, the witness said that after the charts had been sent to the government printing office and proofs in black and white had been made of them, he had discovered that they were not suitable for publication. He had therefore sent them to a private printing concern and had them prepared in a fashion he thought suitable.

Members of the committee expressed surprise that anyone should in any way change something authorized to be printed by the senate. They developed that the permission was secured by Senator Lodge for printing on July 27, and that one of several issues of "sugar at a glance" referred to an order of the senate in August in the same matter.

No Such Order in Record.

The second order referred to data prepared by Truman G. Palmer and purposed to be signed by Charles G. Bennett, then secretary of the senate. Mr. Palmer said he supposed that the order had been made and that he got it in the proofs of the charts from the printing office. The Congressional Record of Aug. 1, according to Senator Cummins, showed no such order, nor did the journal of the senate nor the files of its document room.

"I want to find out about this," said Senator Cummins. "It is a rather serious matter to forge a signature of the secretary of the senate to an order that never was made."

and Stripes, the beautiful design which for 136 years has been altered only by the addition of stars to celebrate the admission of a new state into the Union. The selection of Betsy Ross for the imperishable honor of making the first flag of the new republic was due to her game as a needlewoman. By some historians she has been designated as a dressmaker, but this is denied by others. All agree, however, that she was known at least throughout Philadelphia for her skill with the needle, and when early in 1777 the American congress had resolved that the crosses of St. Andrew and St. George should come off the flag, the name of Betsy Ross suggested itself to the committee composed of General Washington, Samuel Morris and John Ross, the uncle of Betsy. This committee waited upon her and submitted a design formed by General Washington. Congress had already legislated by resolution upon the general form, but the details were left to be worked out. Washington's selection was six-pointed stars, but Betsy Ross suggested stars with five points as more symmetrical and easier to make. She also suggested that the red stripes begin and end the field instead of the white stripes as suggested by Washington. Both of these amendments were adopted by the committee and Betsy Ross was commissioned to perform the sacred task of making the first American flag. It was first shown to Washington and a distinguished company of patriots June 14, 1777.

The original flag had thirteen stars, representing the original thirteen colonies. It has now one star for each state in the Union. The new flag was first saluted by a foreign power February 14, 1778, when in French waters a French admiral LaMotte Piquet, returned the salute of Commodore Paul Jones. According to most historians it was first displayed at the battle of Brandywine. It was first carried around the world in 1788, when the Columbia, under Captain Kendrick, circumnavigated the globe. It was first raised over a foreign and captured fort at Nassau in 1778. An interesting explanation of the signification of the colors is that the red signifies war if necessary, the white arbitration, intelligence and justice and the blue industry and economy.

The only departure from the form of the flag which was ever made since its adoption was in the selection of the stars and bars of the confederacy and the design was never quite satisfactory to the confederate states.

Since the adoption of the national emblem countless variations of the flag have been made to suit the various branches of the several departments of the government. There is an intricate system of army and navy flags, suited to the rank of the various commanding officers and designating the different branches of the service.

According tto the official regulations of the state department the flag of the president of the United States is as follows: It is of scarlet bunting 13x8 feet, with a five-pointed star in each corner. In the center are five-pointed stars in the circumference of an imaginary circle of two feet and nine inches radius. Inside this star is a parallel star surrounded by a white band. The inner star forms a blue field on which is affixed the coat of arms of the republic, the device being located by placing the middle point of the line dividing the chief from the paleways of the escutcheon on the point of intersection of the diagonals of the flag and this coinciding with the corner of the large center star. On this scarlet field around the large star are the stars representing the various states of the Union in the circumference of a circle three feet and three inches, whose center is the center of the large star.

GREY'S ADDRESS CONTAINS THREAT

Advises Bulgaria and Servia to Accept Arbitration.

London, June 13.—Sir Edward Grey, the British foreign secretary, speaking in the house of commons, expressed the hope that both Bulgaria and Servia would accept the offer of Russian arbitration.

He said it was impossible to express too strongly the feelings of disappointment and disapproval the outbreak of a war between the Balkan allies would cause. It would, he continued, alienate the sympathy of Europe and involve the risk to the Balkan states of losing all they had gained in the war with Turkey.

Belgrade, Servia, June 13.—The Servian government sent a note to the Bulgarian government proposing that three-fourths of the armies of Bulgaria and Servia be demobilized to relieve the existing tension and to facilitate a settlement of the differences between the two governments.
